The course was amazing. TAs were as cordial as the instructor is. I regret underutilizing my potential and accept my failure as a student to provide enough justice to the course and the professor. I loved the way the professor was open for interaction with the students. The thing I would carry with me for the rest of the life is the honest effort put by the professor.

Remarks :

This man is simply blessed from the gods. He has the blessing of Lord Ganesha with him. I have rarely seen a teacher so intelligent and so empathetic with the students. The clarity and the love he has for the subject is mind blowing, awe-inspiring and motivating as well. It was my good fortune that I got to take his course. He is one of the greatest assets for this institute. I would recommend any student in this country to take a course offered by him in a heartbeat. I am eagerly waiting in anticipation for the next semesters to see if he is offering a course because I would grab the chance to take his course in an instant.

Remarks :

Dr Karthik was the best professor of my undergrad and postgrad academic studies. His Probability Theory course captivated me completely from the first to the last lecture. Remarkable, he made measure-theoretic aspects to students like me who had not taken Measure Theory, which I truly appreciate.

Whenever he references any other courses during lectures, his explanations are interesting that I feel motivated to take those course myself. It is also very appreciating how he clears every doubt in detail and does not move on till he feels the entire class is on the same page with him.

OI think I will take any course taken by him with my eyes closed.

Remarks :

The amount of effort he puts into bringing up the level of every student present in his class is truly appreciable. He is one of the best professors I have met this semester. I got a chance to interact with him once, apart from the coursework, which helped us navigate our master's program with better clarity and vision. I am grateful to attend probability lectures from him, and I was able to improve my understanding of this subject.

Remarks :

The current setup you have for teaching is great. Please keep the slides as information-dense as you have them now (although I understand the pain of LaTeXing them up). A possibly underrated facet of your teaching is that your handwriting is extremely legible, even when you write standing up. Thanks for that. It is unfortunate that this institute seems to hate blackboards, but you have really made the tablet-based teaching an extension of your verbal exposition. I don't know how much effort you had to expend for that, but it is appreciated.

I feel like you can be a bit more "rough" with the students; the slides are very detailed and you additionally provide the recordings. I don't feel like you need to slow down your natural pace, and have to explain things multiple times if people do not ask for it (and many times people do). I understand that you gauge the response from the students, but please try to be a bit more ruthless in this regard; students should also learn to interrupt and ask for clarification where they need some, or try to blackbox certain parts of proofs/derivations and move on with the rest of the content.

The course was really fun; I hope you offer RL so I can complete the trilogy.
